

CHEWTON GLEN

HAMPSHIRE

EXCLUSIVE USE

AN ENGLISH ORIGINAL

Chewton Glen is a quintessentially English, privately owned luxury Country House Hotel & Spa on the fringe of the New Forest. With some of England's most stunning countryside rolling up around us and the calmness of the sea just moments away, Chewton Glen is an idyllic escape. Historic documents suggest the luxury property was built in the early eighteenth century, with land and premises known as "Chewton Glen House" appearing in 1732.

Capt. Frederick Marryat stayed for periods of the 1840's, gathering material for his famous novel "The Children of the New Forest". Clearly, the captain was inspired by the property's exquisite location on the edge of the New Forest, set upon 130 acres of beautiful grounds. Between 1947 and 1967, Chewton Glen had three different owners, but it was the Duval family who first made Chewton Glen a hotel. No doubt its family-owned influence has sealed it as the family-friendly retreat it is today. Now, Chewton Glen continues to develop, winning countless national and international awards and accolades. From being an author's inspiring forest retreat to the "Best Country Hotel in the World", it has a captivating past, and an exciting future.
